| Description | A high terrace, which lies in the middle of the city of Krems and is a predominantly flat area, but consistently stony and dry. The Pannonian climate has a strong influence here and produces Grüner Veltliner with a nice fullness and rich apple fruit. Historically one of the origins of the Weingut Stadt Krems, which has been cultivating vineyards here for more than 800 years.                                                                                                                                              |                                     |
|             | 2025 – “cool” wines with vibrant acidity and pure terroir character. After a mild winter, vegetation in the Kremstal region began with bud break in mid-April. A period of changeable weather until flowering (second week of June) was followed by a heat wave. The summer months were accompanied by ideal rainfall. Cool nights, especially from mid-August onwards, characterized the ripening phase. Unsettled weather made the harvest, which began in the third week of September, a test of patience requiring several passes. |                                     |
